CHESTERFIELD, S. C., THURSDAY, APRIL 22, 1920

$1.50 A YEAR IN ADVANCE

B. C. MOORE SELLS

COUNTRY HOLDINGS

Mr. B. C. Moore, who recently disposed of his home in Chesterfield and other valuable Main street property, has sold three large farms.

The place located at Guess, comprising some 600 acres was bought by the Rivers Brothers, of Mt. Croghan. The price paid is not given out, but as the land is of fine quality and location it is likely that it brought a big price.

Mr. George Eddins has purchased from Mr. Moore the farm known as the Ray Eddins land, two miles south-west of Chesterfield. This farm consists of 243 acres. It is on the Chesterfield-McBee road. The price is not made public.

Messrs J. C. Rivers, P. M. Therrell and Dr. R. L. McManus have secured the Moore place on the Wadesboro road. This is a 262-acre farm. The crops that have been planted, stock and utensils were all included in this deal and the sum of $20,000 is said to have changed hands in this transaction.

It is estimated that Mr. Moore has turned about $100,000 worth of Chesterfield town and county property into cash within the last few weeks. He still holds some of the most desirable business and residence property in town, all of which he has offered for sale.

WEXFORD

Mrs. E. H. Huneycutt spent the week-end at her home after having spent the past week in Albermarle, with her little son, Wayne, who has been taking treatment for his eyes.

Mr. W. H. Moore spent Sunday afternoon with Mrs. E. H. Huneycutt.

JOHN T. HURST

PLANS TO BUILD

The real estate deal recently mentioned in The Advertiser between Mr. John T. Hurst and Mrs. L. F. Stratton, as being incomplete, has been made. Mr. Hurst has acquired from Mrs. Stratton the plot at the corner of Main street and Paige avenue, with a forty-foot front on Main street. He will immediately begin preparations for the erection of a building for his mercantile business. Just how extensive the building will be has not yet been determined. It was Mr. Hurst's original intention to erect a three-story building, the upper floors of which would contain office suits and living rooms, but the difficulty of obtaining materials may cause the upper floors to be temporarily left off, as Mr. Hurst is very desirous of getting into his new place of business at the earliest possible moment. The original plan has by no means been abandoned, however, and walls will be constructed of proper strength to accommodate additional stories.

Negotiations are now being carried on with the C. & L. Railroad for the extension of the spur track at the rear of this property so as to include the Hurst warehouse, which will be built immediately. The spur will be used to carry the materials for the new structure to the building site.

"DOC" WATSON BUYS

MAIN STREET LOT

Mr. H. D. Watson has purchased a lot on Main street adjoining the W. M. Redfeare store, and plans in the near future to erect a building for his own use. Mr. Watson is badly in need of a store in which to conduct his jewelry business and this is the first move in that direction.

Mr. P. P. Hurst, proprietor of the Hurst Barber Shop has bought a strip next to that purchased by Mr. Watson and he also expects soon to build.

It is a busy season. If you can't come to town just phone your wants early. The R. F. D. man will deliver it the same day.

OVERALLS IN STYLE

MOVEMENT TO COMBAT PROFITEERING IN CLOTHING SPREADS OVER LAND

Started in The South, The Idea Takes Hold in All Parts of the Country. Biggest Cities And Littlest Towns Form Clubs

The spontaneous "overall strike" against the high price of men's clothing has taken the aspect of a serious national movement.

This is one movement that did not originate in New York, but New York has adopted it. Parades in overalls have passed through the great clothing centers of the metropolis and thousands of business and professional men have sanctioned the idea. From Maine to California, from New Orleans to Minneapolis come reports of clubs organizing, the members of which will don overalls and wear them until the price of clothing comes back to where it belongs.

That the movement is regarded seriously by clothing dealers and manufacturers is shown in several ways. In New York the big wholesalers are ridiculing the idea, saying it is a fad and will not last. In other places retail clothing merchants have cut prices on some of their goods and have displayed them with signs attached asking "Why wear overalls when you can buy a suit so cheaply?"

Senator Dial, of South Carolina, who hails from the part of the country in which the movement had its inception, was called upon and made a speech in its defense on the floor of the Senate. Many Senators and Congressmen expressed themselves as being in hearty favor of the strike and several proposed forming a club in the capitol and wearing overalls in their law-making sessions. This proposition has not yet been put into effect.

Meanwhile, the women of the country are beginning to take steps in the same direction. They are beginning to form sister clubs, the members of which pledge themselves to wear nothing more expensive than gingham.

The Government has recognized the movement by offering to supply its civilian employes with regulation army overalls at cost.

At present overalls are selling at from $4.00 to $6.00 per suit. It is predicted that if the strike continues to spread these prices will soon follow in the footsteps of more expensive garments and soar to the skies. In this event the leaders in the strike say that "patch clubs" will take the place of "overalls clubs."

The members of the patch clubs will pledge themselves to wear old garments as long as they can be patched and held together. Several of these clubs have already been formed and some of them will from time to time offer prizes to its members for the suit displaying the greatest number of necessary patches.

In South Carolina clubs have been organized from one end to the other of the State. Columbia organized a club with two hundred charter members. Charleston has its club, so has Greenville and Spartanburg. The smaller towns and cities throughout the State are taking up the idea.

COLORED STUDENTS GIVE ENTERTAINMENT

On last Friday night at the court house auditorium the students of the Chesterfield school for colored gave a delightful entertainment. Quite a number of white people who are interested in the advancement and welfare of the local colored people attended. The exercises were of a high order and reflected much credit upon the scholars and teachers. The program consisted of addresses, essays, recitations and musical numbers. Rev. Foster, principal of the school, gave a short talk on the aims, objects and accomplishments of the institution, that was worthy of especial note. The colored people of Chesterfield are to be congratulated on their sincere efforts to educate their children and this entertainment proved very conclusively that these efforts are bearing fruit.

FATAL AUTO ACCIDENT AT SOCIETY HILL

Andrew D. Cauthen, aged 17, an amateur base ball pitcher of note, and one of the most popular young men of Darlington, was killed Monday afternoon while enroute from his home to Cheraw when the automobile in which he was riding struck a sand patch in the road and turned over. The accident occurred near Society Hill. Four other young men were in the car but none of them was seriously injured. The party was composed of members of the Darlington High School ball club and they were on their way to Cheraw to witness the game between Columbia and Cheraw High Schools.

Andrew Cauthen was the son of Rev. Henry J. Cauthen. The family is well known in Chesterfield County. No blame is attached to anyone for the accident as it seemed to have been purely unavoidable and was due to the poor condition of the road.

COTTON MEETING AT COURT HOUSE

Mr. R. B. Laney, county chairman of the South Carolina Cotton Association, announces a meeting at the court house on May 1, at 11 o'clock.

Below is Mr. Laney's call for this meeting:

Mr. R. M. Mixson, president of the South Carolina Cotton Association, has called a meeting of all farmers, bankers and other business people of Chesterfield County to convene at the court house on the first day of May at 11 o'clock, for the purpose of thoroughly organizing our county. Warehousing and other important business will be taken up and acted upon. Everybody is invited. Come out, brother farmer, and defend your rights. There will be speakers there to handle the cotton situation in all its problems. R. B. Laney, Chairman.

Cast thy burden on the Lord, Only lean upon his word; Thou shalt have cause to bless His eternal faithfulness.

LOCAL CANDIDATES

HOLDING BACK

Sheriff D. P. Douglass has announced definitely and decisively that he is not and will not be a candidate for re-election. This leaves an opening for aspirants for that office, as it is unlikely that had Mr. Douglass decided to run, an opponent could have been found who would be willing to undertake the task of defeating so popular a man. Rumor has it that there will be at least three Chesterfield men in the race, although none have made announcement of that fact.

Mr. James T. Grant, who can show a fine record as Deputy Sheriff and who, therefore, is well qualified for the office does not deny that he will be in the race. Mr. Grant has many friends and staunch supporters throughout the county and will, no doubt make a strong candidate.

It is said that Mr. A. W. Hursey is ambitious to fill Mr. Douglass shoes when that gentleman retires to his agricultural pursuits and Mr. Hursey also has many friends who would pledge him their support. Mr. Hursey is a business man of ability and his friends maintain that a business man would make a good sheriff.

Mr. Will J. Tiller looms large on the map as a prospective candidate, but like the others, Mr. Tiller has not said yes or no to the direct question. Mr. Tiller, as County Demonstration Agent, has made many friends through excellent work in his present position, besides always having been a popular man in all parts of the county. Should he enter the race there is no doubt that he would have to be reckoned with.
